To Whom It May Concern:

I am pleased to recommend Jeffrey Moidel for Full Membership in NATS. In my capacity as senior voice instructor at the Cornish College of the Arts, in Seattle, I have observed Mr. Moidel over the past four years, at which time he joined the adjunct voice faculty.

He clearly meets and exceeds the requirements for full membership, both from a degree standpoint and length of experience. That he would accept and abide by the Code of Ethics is without doubt. I have observed him working one on one with private voice students, as a clinician in vocal repertoire master classes, as instructor of Fundamentals of Singing (Class Voice) and as a coach/pianist for the opera program. He demonstrates a clear talent for working with a wide range of vocal skill levels, from classical technique emphasis to Broadway and Pop, and is at all times professional and supportive in his work with our students.

In all aspects of his work at Cornish, he has shown total commitment to his work with the singers, and is also regarded as a friendly, supportive and insightful colleague. In addition, he has collaborated with a number of contemporary composers and performing artists, and I think will be a valuable asset to NATS, and possibly a contributor to the Journal as well.

I recommend Jeffrey Moidel for full NATS membership, without reservation.

Sincerely,

Michael Delos
